The society then adjourned. Immediately after, a meeting of the new corporation was held, president Lond in the chair, when the procedings in connection with the incorporation of the society were read by the secretary, as well as the doings of the meceting at which the charter was accepted, and the old board of afficers reelected. The old order of business was adopted, and also the seal of the old society.

There are many advantages attending the incorporation of the society, especially since its collections have become quite valuable, and there were no persons legally authorized to have the custody of them. The matter had been under consideration for a considerable time, and now the fact has been accomplished, and the society has a legal status. It is now empowered, through its proper officers, to transact any business that may come within its scope.

In the constitution of the society and In the manner of conducting its affairs, In the manner of combineting its affairs, there have been so few changes that the general public will know no difference. The time of hobbing its regular meetings has been changed from the first Weelnesday evening of the month, to the last, as this is a more convenient one for many of the members.

The old society, in its seven years of active service, has done a work, alike creditable to its published intentions, and the energy and zeal which its members have put into it, and the results and the energy and zeal which its mem-bers have put into it, and the results have been received with favor through-out the land. The members, under the new organization as under the old, will endeavor to carry out the design of its original formation; which is, the ed-lecting and preserving of historical and genealogical material relating to our town and its families, and its showed genealogical material relating to our town and its families, and it is hoped that all ritizens interested in these subjects will extend the same generous old in the future as in the past.

Within 10 minutes walk of the central part there is one of the most lovely stretches of beach that is to be seen hereabouts, equalling our own Nantasket, and superior in my estimation to Revers, Sallsbury, or Old Orehard. I refer to that over which we had just come from Nahant. It is already coming into favor with a large class of tho wellers in Lynn who have not the me or money to spare for a more sxtended tonr; so near that one need not feel it a task to slip out an hour in the afternoon and enjoy a stroll and be back to supper. Point of Pines, the place of all others with its ulmost fabulous outlay of attackes is too well known and too minutely described in the daily papers for me to pretend to speak of it here. Oak Ishand is fast coming into favor and bidding fair to be a formidable rival of the "Point." The thrifty air of proaperity at Crescent heach and also at Beachmont gavo signs that our own Nuntasket would need to "look to her language and succeeding the language and succeeding the language and succeeding the property suttain the dear the and of cames and coffee urus shone in their places like a newfieliged Colourel and his aljutant on dress parade.

Leaving the train at Winthrop June ion we took horse cars for East Boston. thence to Chelsea, and were soon at the foot of Powderhorn hill on whose top s snugly perched among the trees The Soldiers' Home, looking like a large bird house, with its blue coated inmates flitting about under the trees or quietly mioying themselves otherwise. The ascent after leaving the public street is by several flights of easy rising stairs with convenient breathing places where you may sit down for a moment and say "O my! how many steps have we come mp? Seventy-two! and only just look up above." When we get there we find we have climbed one hundred and lifty-two steps and are "just about dead." We might have come around by the carriage road to the top, but then we wouldn't have had those awful steps to have told the children about when we got home. The view after once reaching the sum

It is on the northern outskirts of the city, and rises to u height of 150 feet I should judge, resembling in its abruptness many of the hills of our own town, commanding one of the linest riews the vicinity affords.

The whole journey of the day is clearly seen in outline almost from its beginning. While to the right as far as the eye can see, the cities and towns lay thickly dotting the lovely scene, the long lines of railroad branching out in very direction litly represent the pokes which all center at-well there but one place for spokes to center, The Hub," which seems at this paricular hour of the day to be furnishing its daily revolutions with a mighty whirl whose centrifugal force semis a stream of humanity rushing out through very available avenue, only to be drawn ply of pipes and tobacco serve us a meback again in the morning by the oppoite whirl whose force guthers all to the enter, and these scarred and battered eterms from their lofty perch mader he trees see this repeated daily.

But we turn from the grand panorana at our feet to look upon a still grandscene that is daily shown in the lovug, tender care which the people of this Commonwealth are bestowing upon the men who in the time of need were of afraid to trust themselves and their uture to its care. How faithful to its pledge and in what measure it is showng its appreciation of that service is shown in the institution we are about

The 29d Annual Fair
Of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society is an event which our residents box forward to with much interest, and a perusal of the program of the fair, which is given on the third page, will show to the reader that the officers of our popular town society have made stremuous effort to make the 22d annual fair one which will be fully equal to, if not surpassing those of pre-vious years. The novelty unnounced for the first day of a series of bicycle races, with liberal prizes, will be an attraction which will bring a large man ber to the grounds that day, and Mr. H. A. Spear, who has the matter in charge, will endeaver to have a large representation of cyclists in the races, making it one of the most uniqualed of bicycle contests. There will also be an exhibition of fancy bicycle racing by a weil known rider, which will add still greater interest to the sport. It will be noticed in the programme that the first day of the fair is much more than usually filled with attractions, the president sinrt is an element of final success wirthy of adoption this year, and the have also provided the wonderful and highly attractive exhibition of Prof. llurton's $20,000 alog circus, a feature o entertainment for old and young which one should fail to witness. The marvellous intelligence of the canine acto and their thorough training has afforded delight to thousands wherever they have appeared. Mr. Dan Harrows has worked hard in the department of horses to bring a large number of noted trotters to the grounds, and the sport uailer this head will be of a most enlivening character. The purses are liberal and everything will be done to make the racing a grand success. The base itall matches arranged for each day will be contested by wellmatched clubs, and every lover of the E. Tilden presiding at the organ. The national game in this vicinity will have an opportunity to witness some line playing. Prof. Burton is to appear each day with his dogs, and with the show of stock on the track, the various races, the drawing match, the exhibition in the half and at the stock pens, the three days can be profitably and pleasantly rujoyed by visitors, who it is hoped will be present by thousands. President Haymond is working heartily and zealonsly to make the fair a great success; the different committees of gents and work of preparation, and the public should respond to their efforts with the largest attendance ever known at the fairs of the society. .:

The meeting devoluped intermed affiner than usual interest and there was no lack of prolitable discussion. The street lighting committee were instructed to provide for lighting the lamps that are part of the three drinking fountains in the village. It having been reported that a number of young trees had alled this annouer along some of the principal streets, quite a discussion ensued on the best methods of planting and insuring the growth of trees, the opinion seem-ing to prevail that if plenty of loam and coarse material were placed at the femulation there would be few trees lost. The committee on public grounds stated that a man had been comployed being this before the seeds became ripe there would be less weeds next year. The action was considered good how-ever if only the books of the streets at this time were improved. At the June meeting prizes of $5, $4 and $2 were of fered to the schools having the bebooking yards at the beginning of the 6 fall term. The comudities specially appointed for that purpose, had visited the several yards during the week and announced their awards as follows:tst prize, Pratt School; 2d prize, Howe school; 3d prize, Hates school. Many of the other schools were highly com-mended for the results accomplished. which were as a whole a bundred per but advance over last year. The sair during the day made a tour of inspec-tion through the village and had visited wenty-two different buildings. These ucladed twelve tenement houses, two hotels, one public building and seven factories. Most of the fenements were found in an excellent sanitary con dition, while a few had a dangerous arrangement for the disposition of sewage matter. One of the factories was proonneed first class in its sanitary proisions, while most of the others were found largely delicient in means to carry off to icsafe distance the refuse water and other materials. The proprietor's attention was called to the facts in meanly every case and it was thought that much good would come from the examination. examinations of this character about he village at stated times would have tendency to make people more careful in regard to sanitary matters. It was flually suggested by one of the members of the executive committee that there he a day set apart some time during the summer when the sanitary committee should inspect dwellings and factories and their surroundings, to be known as Purification Day. This sound ed somewhat novel, but the suggestion was considered timely and worthy of consideration. The meeting was de-cidedly lively and interesting throughout and showed conclusively the need of just such an organization as the 1mprovement Association to look after the health and beauty of the village. A ideasant and successful party wa given by Miss Alice Raymond at her father's residence, Thursday evening of last week, which brought togethe much of the youth and beauty of the village. Labor Parado.

The grand purade of the trades in Bostou last Monday called out about 10,000 men, who marched over a route tostou fast Monday called out about 10,000 men, who marched over a route of several nailes, from Columbus avenue to Washington square, being reviewed in School street by Mayor O'llrien. Several bands and dram corps accompanied the column and a vast assembling of spectators lined the sidewalks along the route. The parache was an imposing and interesting spectacle, and the devices of the various tracks were suggestive and ministing. Agreat crowd of the paraders attempted to reach Downer Lambing by the steamers, but it was not until 4 o'clock that the last load sailed away from the wharf, many taking the cars over the O. C. R. R. and walking to the Landing from Hingham. The party spent the day in various sports and besteged the dining hall in vigorous manner. At night the query was, "How are we all to get home?" The steamers were cranned with passengers up to midnight, the trips being made in a dense fog, but no accident happened to the thousands who embarked.

Committees.

The Tree committee would report that there has been set out about 30 trees by them and 01 their suggestion, and no doubt there would have been more if the streets were graded permanently, as many places need to be graded before setting trees. There is a party contemplating the setting of 200 or 300 trees this fall and the committee hope with the assistance of the association they will be able to make it a success. While the work for the year past does not show 30 much as the year previous, yel we lithic there has been quite an improvement in the place made by individuals as well as the association.

in the place made by individuals as well as the associalion. The Lamp committee have placed? lamps on different streets the past year at the cost of about $3$ to the association. They have also provided chimneys for the use of all street lamps, which the committee believed to be a benefit in regard to having the lamps better lighted than they otherwise would have been.

The Street committee have as great amount of labor to do perhaps, as any othat committee appointed, in order that our streets and sidewalks may be kept in proper condition, and perhaps as much fault would be found with this committee because as noticeable a thing in looking uves the village is its streets and sidewalks, and we consider lighted duty of residents in hava their sidewalk and edges of grass along the same in good condition if possiduty of residents in hava their sidewalk and edges the straightening and widening of certain streets and it suitable arrangements can be made with the owners of the land it will make a decided improvement.

The committee on Public Patk and Greens report that during the last preceding year they have found but little opportunity to do anything on public highways, but they are pleased to notice the very nearl and eleanly manner in which many persons keep the sidewalks and grass patches. In front of their premises, and also the beautiful manner in which the school house yard has been anlorned with beds of flowers and shrubs. They hope that much more will be done in the next coming year, especially in the yards of the churches.

Sanitary Committee. This committee has done their share of work. The treasury shows the amount yaid for renovating, etc., and trying to stup the spreading of scartefever and other diseased during the year. The amount paid in this case was quite an expense to the association and am sorry to say only one or two of the owners of houses renovated were members of the association and am sorry to say only one or two of the owners of houses renovated were members of the association, and it certainly would be a help if those persons seeing the good the commuttee intended to pursons seeing the good the commuttee intended to pursons seeing the good the commuttee intended to the proposition of a Drinking Fountain. Wite Awake for September.

The September Wido Awake is enriched with a strong and interesting frontispiece which illustrates a Mexican poem entitled Los Companerus. The apening story, When Book Meets Book, is a salutary tale to be read by hath children and parents. Hon, S. S. Cox contributes a long and racy article upon L'Enfant Terrible Turk, which is fully illustrated from Turkish photographs. Following is a dointy lrish hollad, Three Little Would-be Entigrants, with five full page illustrations. Another interesting article of travel is Same Indian Children. The war slory of the number In the Turtle-Crawl, relates a thrilling experience in the Seminole War. My Friend's Stiff Shouther describes o tiger hunt. A lovely story is A l'att of My Friend's Still Shoulder describes o tiger hunt. A lovely story is A Put of Fold with illustrations. There is much other interesting matter, notably the three serials, and there are pacens by Esther II. Tilfany, Kate Putnam Os-good, Mrs, Bisheo and others. Wale Awake is $3 a year. D. Lothrep & Co. Publishers, Boston.

Quite a largo crowd assembled on the Fair Grounds, Hingham, last Saturday to witness the game of ball between the Roxbury nine and the Hinghams. The latting, catching, pitching and lichling of both club were very flim, each lichling of both club were very dim, each olub doing its utmost to depart the ather. We learn that it was one of the linest games that has heren played during this season. However, the home team wan the game in a close contest, the scare being 3 for the home mue, and 2 for the Roxburys.

From the frontispiece, which is a re-production of Landseer's celebrated portrait of himself and his two dogs, The Connoisseurs, to the Rudde-box The Counoisscurs, to the Ruhlle-lox with its ingenious pozzles, St Nicholas is crowded with bright and interesting matter for girls and boys and all who love them. A paper on English Art and Arists, by Chira Erskine Clement, opens the number und closes the series which has been the means of introducing so many beautiful pictures and entertaining uncedates to the readers of the magnizine. It is illustrated by the frontispiere and by pictures by Sir Joshontteynolds, Thomas Gainsharough and others. Little Lard Fannilerov is carried forward in two chopters. The und others. Little Lord Famuleroy is carried forward in two chopters. The other serials too, increase in interest as they mear their conclusions, 'Kelpgatherers' and 'Nan's Revolt' progressing well. Henry Eckford explains some curious relations between letters and numbers in Wonders of the Alphabet. The Brownies with their usual enterprise take up the game of lawnfeums, as Palmer Cox amusingly tells in verse and pictures; and Susan Anna Brown describes a clever Italian game for enterprising young Americans. for enterprising young Americans.

Among the other contents especially noteworthy we the Work and Playpaper on Venetian Mutupetry, how one boy saved three lives on Laké George; and A Matter-of-fact Conferella, which is read among to be true. s good enough to be true.

THE & STRING Two full-page partraits of Liszt and account of A Sommer with Liszt in Weimar, appear in the Century. Pictores of Liszt's home and of his two most promising papils add to the interest of the article. Amateur Ballooning and The Balloon Experiences of a Timid Photographer, are illustrated with enrious photographs of the earth, and of cloud effects from altitudes of a mile or more, being here given in facsimile reproductions. So far as known these are the first photographs taken in America from a balloon. Kemble has also tooched the experiences of these sky-adventorers with his hymnorous pencil. Two illustrated articles of artistic and scientific interest are A clance be September Ceolury. tistic and scientific interest are A Glance at the Arts of Persta, and account of The Zoological Station at Naples. The charm of an essay and the observations of a stodent of nature are mingled in Notes from the Prairie. The War Series papers are by General Pleasonton, General Howard, Col. Huntington W. Jackson, Samoel P. Bates, Lien. R. E. Colston, Geo. Thomas M. Anderson and others, and are rich in incident. stic and scientific interest are A Glar Siasconset being their favorite resting place. A noted literateur and traveller said treus on a recent visit to the island, that for professionals who were in search of a omict shot by any place on the entire coast, the free-dom from requirements of fashionable life, the glorious health giving air and the quaintness of the surroundings, in parting a sanitary influence for which many seek far away localities when the same results can be found almost at their own doors. A pleasant ride over the Obl Colony Railroad to Woods Hot and a trip over the Vineyard Sound in stanneh and nicely furnished steamer occupies but a few hours, at small expense for travel, and on the island the ourist can find many comfortable hos refries where the charges are moderate and accommodations unexceptionalde. Taking the narrow guage railroad to Siasconset a delightful day can be passed upon the ocean shore, the broad Atlantic billows rolling and foaming upon the strand in mighty force, while the view of the boundless waste of waters is as gratifying to the behobler as though he were far at sea on a yes sel's deck. THE G. A. R. TRIP.

Dear Gazette: I left you abruptly a few weeks ago, illust because I was practically beyond the vicinity of frequent analis and partly because it was next to impossible to keep up a correspondence because we were so incessanily on tun move. I can now only give you a few motes of our journey, representing them of interest to us, but probably of but little consequence to the general reads of interest to us, but probably of but little consequences. The general read in glaft's ride in Chicago at 8 o'clock, but we lead an enormously long and heavy train of Pullman Sie-pers and consequently our progress was delayed and it was 12 to 'clock instead of 8 when we arrived. We were not to leave till night and swe took a carriage and spent our time in viewing different objects of interest. The Chicagoans are exceedingly modest in regard to whatever pertains to their own city, still we did by much persons in the still consider their Parks worthy of some consideration so we went to one of the Parks—the south one. This is of large extent consisting of lawn, lake, and woosiland, and connected if I was rightly unformed, with what is termed. Washington Park, the latter more particularly for the illeplay of diving an equipage. A large and beautiful conservatory with a great variety of choice from the rulus of the court house their destroyed. We found a variety of animal mass, among which was a cow which, although not so designanted, we supposed to be Mrs. O'Leary's, of ancient and world-whole fame; a young croecilie making a dinner from of a plentiful singly of a microsked principal and world-whole fame; a young croecilie making a dinner from of a plentiful singly of a microsked principal and world-whole fame; a young croecilie making, and inner from of a plentiful singly of a microsked principal and world-whole fame; a young croecilie making a dinner from of a plentiful singly of a microsked principal and world-whole fame; a young croecilie making a dinner from of a plentiful singly of a microsked principal and world-whole fame; a young croecilie making a dinner from of a plentiful singly of annooked perch, a monster gively from the rocked party and the problem of the problem of the p analls and partly because it was next to mpassible to keep up a correspondence LOVELL'S CORNER.

world-wide fame; a young crocodile making a diamer from off a plentiful supply of microcked perch, a moaster grizzly from the rockles, taking a quiet sitz bath in his tub and longlingly lapping his jaws with his tongue as one of us approached a little mearer than strict etiquette demanded. Several black lears were lolling about as though they had linished their day's work and limit nothing in particular to do but gaze at strangers. There was a full assortment had finished their day's work and had nothing in particular to do but gaze at strangers. There was a fullassoriment of prairie wolves, some select speciments of what were labelled radpes falva but what seemed precisely like what I used to hear called foxes, prairie dogs, ratabits, etc., etc.

Considerable attention had been hestowed upon ornithology; there was a line specimen of a black cagle, a noorster grey hawk, doves of all sizes and quality and one poor barn yard fowl styled gallas phasicaido whether laving any determinate pedigree or Instory I could not ascertain. We visited, also, the pumping station of the city, where are four large engines constantly engaged in pumping into the rity resevoir for domestic use and drinking jumposes, the sewage of the city after it has been diluted by passing through two miles of lake water. It seems however, fram the frequency of the liquor saloon signs, that not much danger of contamination will arise from this leverage. The new Pullman building, about completed, and the Heard of Trade house are both magnificent buildings. BASE BALL.

The East Weynouths Saturday, at the Fair Grounds, after a determined unit hard lought contest, succeeded in it defeating the Randolphs. The game was characterized by magnificent lighting, but one fielding error being made by each team. Melanosh, in the absence of the I mpire, officiated in that capacity, and not with standing the abuse he received from some of the Bandolph players, was firm and impartial, and gave the best exhibition of impringe ever seen on the grounds. Barrell's eatching was superfound clicited much applaines. The remaining features for the E. W's, were Pratt's halting and the playing of Cullen, Bonahoe, Februhe Bandolphs Rhown, Malligan and Rudderkam played linely.

Keyle won the loss, and Mulligan went to first on a bit, stole second and scored on a wild pitch. Brown thad out to Oalhen, Burchay retired on a fly to Pratt's E. Keefe ended the inning by striking out. For the East Weynnoulis, D. Stallery in trying to reach second was thrown out by Barchay, making a line double play. Her classinates, they will sorrow For that young and smiling face.

She was a kind and loving daughter, A sister, good and true, Her days on earth are ended; Her pains and sufferings through,

Her school-days now are all ended; The vacation now is o'er, No one can till the vacant chair For that form you see no more,

No more you clasp that anowy hard; No sound from Edie, dear; But all is sad and lonely now, And her you're we cannot hear.

Weep not for her the young and pure. The kind and gentle-hearted, Who like a rambow fading here. Just smiled and then departed.

She has gone to that blest land above, Where angel lyres are breathing. And scraphs around her spotless brow limited flowers are wreathing.
